Ohio Senators To Hold Vote On Racing Bill

Group Also Eyes Removal of Ceiling On Old Age Pensions

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio Senators called up for a vote tonight a bill to ban horse racing on Good Friday and planned a vote Wednesday on removal of the $65 monthly ceiling on old age pensions.

Representatives will vote tomorrow on a proposal carrying a maximum fine of $500 for the unauthorized practice of medicine. The bill makes such practice a misdemeanor.

Although state employees have a holiday in observance of Washington's Birthday, legislators start another work week as usual. The House convenes at 7:30 p. m.; the Senate at 8.

Both houses stepped up the tempo of hearings on pending bills and prepared to receive another batch of new measures during the week.

Backers of supplemental unemployment benefits (SUB) on a hurry-up basis renew their fight for emergency handling of a Senate-passed bill in the House. Industry and Labor Committee Tuesday.

Lost Emergency Clause

Majority Democrats lost the emergency clause by a single vote in the Senate but hope to have it restored in the House.

Return of the emergency clause would permit simultaneous payment of SUB and state jobless benefits as soon as the proposal became law. Without the emergency provision, a 90-day wait is required.

Sponsors predicted House approval and ultimate Senate passage of the bill as an emergency. The House would end a requirement for deduction of SUB from state jobless benefits now in effect. Labor contracts for SUB cover workers mainly in the steel, rubber, automotive and other industries. Such contracts are designed to give jobless workers 2-3 of takehome pay.

The Senate Commerce and Labor Committee will start hearings Wednesday on a labor-backed bill to give workers to 60 per cent of average weekly wages while unemployed.

The measure, introduced last

Gen. Marshall Serious After Second Stroke

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall weakened today. His condition remains serious.

In a medical report on the 78-year-old general, Col. George M. Powell, Army physician, said: "He shows an indication of an involvement of the pituitary gland as evidenced by a definite increase in water output by way of the kidneys. This involvement has complicated his treatment."

Dr. Powell explained that the complication of treatment concerned feeding, which heretofore has been by intravenous solution and through a tube into his stomach.

The general's second stroke was accompanied by mild pneumonia. Col. Powell reported the pneumonia under control.

Marshall suffered a stroke at his winter home in Pinehurst Jan. 15 and has been hospitalized here since. He suffered the second stroke last week.

Heart Fund Drive Nets $880 In East Palestine

EAST PALESTINE — A total of $880 was collected for the heart fund in a house-to-house canvass of East Palestine and neighboring communities Sunday.

The amount included $52 received in Negley; $35, New Waterford; and $34, Unity.

Forty-three girls from the Order of the Rainbow and 16 members of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority, sponsoring organization, participated in the canvass. Last year on Heart Sunday $912 was collected.

Paula Brown of W. North Ave. won first prize for collecting $47, the largest amount. Second prize went to Kay Peters of N. Walnut St. who amassed $37.

The drive will continue the rest of the month.

Bombings Set Off Probe

Cincinnati Policemen Hit Numbers Racket

CINCINNATI (AP)—For the past month, police have patiently studied newspaper clippings, police reports and other data on the numbers racket. Their aim:

First, to see if there is a link between violence and numbers operations.

Second, to show City Council the need for a stiff anti-numbers law. Two bombings in the city Saturday night dramatically underscored their research. They touched off a massive police roundup that officers say may crack open numbers operations in greater Cincinnati.

Investigators said the two apparent targets of the blasts—Peter Andrews, 30, and Mrs. Sue Bohannon, 42—were charged with promoting a scheme of chance.

Police Sunday questioned about 100 persons and released them. Officers arrested nine others but filed no charges against them immediately.

Linked to Shooting

Investigators said the bombings were apparently linked to the shooting death—gangland style—of Mrs. Lillie May Bohannon, 52, Nov. 17. Officers said she was an important figure in numbers racket operations.

Numbers—sometimes called policy—is a form of gambling where a small amount, five or ten cents, is wagered on a combination of three numbers. To win, the numbers must match certain specified numbers published daily, such as the stock, bond and curb sales in New York for the day. But a

Loading Obsolete Tank Is 8-Hour Job

EAST PALESTINE — An expected one-hour project in loading an obsolete 48-ton tank onto a flat railroad car turned out to be a 12-hour job and somewhat of a minor field problem for the men of the Co. C, 778th Reserve Tank Battalion here Sunday.

The company, commanded by Capt. John Dean, had received permission to move the tank from its headquarters at 300 S. Market St. to the Pennsylvania Railroad siding. The tank was to be shipped to the Letter Kenny Ordnance Depot in Indiana.

It took the men two hours to start the vehicle and another 10 hours to get the tank centered on the railroad car.

The moving of the tank through the city's downtown business section bottled up traffic for most of the morning.

In other activity Sunday, the company swore in two new men as enlistees. They are Keith Sutherland of East Palestine and Allen Rupert of New Waterford. They were sworn in by Capt. Dean.

Lisbon Fire SCARE

LISBON — An overheated furnace at an apartment building at 136 E. Washington St. caused a fire scare early Sunday morning. Acting Fire Chief Thirl Flugan reported.

Firemen were summoned at 2:25 a.m. by apartment residents. No damage was caused.

Ike Opposes Proposed Cut In Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower is reported ready to make an even stronger fight than last year for support of his $3,930,000 foreign aid request.

Some Republican leaders say they are convinced he would veto and demand reconsideration of any bill which cut deeply into the program he proposed.

Democratic leaders have indicated they may slice the mutual assistance program to offset increases in other outlays above the president's requests in his 77-billion-dollar budget.

With this in mind, Eisenhower reportedly has told associates he fears the United States might eventually be pushed back into a garrisoned hemisphere unless foreign military and economic aid is carried on at a high level.

In talks to Republican leaders at White House conferences, Eisenhower is said to have cited Viet Nam, with 125,000 men under arms, as an example of a coun-

Water Program To Be Introduced To Ohio Senate

Sen. Danny Johnson Of New Philadelphia To Present Proposal

By DUANE E. CROFT
News Staff Correspondent
COLUMBUS, Ohio — Sen. Danny D. Johnson (D-New Philadelphia) will introduce tonight his bill to put the authority for state water policy in the hands of a single agency.

The 103rd Ohio General Assembly will be asked to establish a nine-member Ohio Water Commission to coordinate and control every phase of water development and management.

The commission would have the power to study, recommend, approve, order or reject projects for flood controls, conservation, utilization and recreation.

'Would Conserve Resources'

"If enacted into law," Johnson said, "this bill will give the state an agency with power to manage and conserve Ohio's water resources, which include flood control, good conservation measures and much needed additional recreation facilities."

"The members of the commission would represent every facet of our growth and development, especially as they are affected by water resources."

Four of the members would be appointed by the governor, with Senate confirmation, for six-year terms at $50 a day for each day actually worked. They would represent commerce and industry, agriculture, public water supply and recreation.

Three cabinet members—the directors of natural resources, health, and public works—would be ex-officio members. The remaining two members would represent the State Legislature, one from the Senate and one from the House.

State Official Included

The commission would elect its own chairman and vice chairman annually. The chief of the Division of Water in the Department of Natural Resources would serve as the commission's secretary as well as its administrative executive.

Two crucial sections of the bill would:

PROHIBIT any state department, political subdivision or private interest from taking any action contrary to the board's formal findings and recommendations.

PROHIBIT the construction of any facility that would involve state water resources, including Lake Erie and the Ohio River without first obtaining the commission's approval. Only exceptions would be domestic and farm use of water owned by the user and existing municipal water supply systems.

Could Call Witnesses

Other powers provided for in the bill would allow the commission:

SUBPOENA witnesses and records for its hearings.

ENCOURAGE and assist government groups, watershed organizations and private interests in water developments.

Political Prisoners in Cyprus Are Released

NICOSIA (AP)—Greek Cypriots celebrated wildly as the British turned loose more than 900 political prisoners Sunday.

The detainees had been held without trial under emergency regulations as suspected members of EOKA, the Greek Cypriot underground which has been waging ing a terrorist campaign against the British since 1945.

The government announced all detention camps on the island were being closed and emergency regulations lifted. The action had been assured by the agreement last Thursday in London to give Cyprus independence, but the release of the prisoners came quicker than expected.

Hundreds of other Cypriots imprisoned after conviction of violating the emergency regulations were not affected by the first amnesty. But many of these are expected to get reduced terms or release soon.

Gates Swing Open

The barred wire gates of the Mammari and Kokkinotrimithia detention camps swung open shortly after 3 p.m. Sunday. A stream of buses, jammed with detainees and with some riding on the roofs, headed for Nicosia. Greek flags and EOKA banners were unfurled. The detainees

2-Hour Meeting Supposedly On Berlin Problem

British Leaders Weekend Guests of Premier Khrushchev

MOSCOW (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan and Premier Khrushchev met for two and a half hours in the Kremlin today and apparently discussed the disarmament deadlock between the West and the Russians.

Only one adviser—disarmament expert Con O'Neill—accompanied Macmillan, Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and Ambassador Sir Patrick Reilly to the first formal conference of the British delegation's visit.

The official Soviet news agency in a brief dispatch after the meeting said that Macmillan and Khrushchev had "friendly conversations."

Macmillan and Khrushchev got down to formal Kremlin talks after a get-acquainted weekend in the country.

The British prime minister got second billing in the Moscow press however. The Communist party organ Pravda devoted top space to an editorial lauding the Red army—which marked its 41st anniversary Sunday—and gave only brief mention to the Khrushchev-Macmillan parley.

Returned to Moscow

Macmillan and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd returned to Moscow Sunday night after a weekend as guests of Premier and Mrs. Khrushchev at the rambling one-story villa 50 miles southeast of Moscow.

A spokesman for the two leaders said they discussed subjects of mutual interest in lengthy informal sessions before and after lunch. "The two great men got on

Sec. Dulles to Undergo Third Treatment

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles gets his third X-ray treatment for cancer today after a respite during which he had two discussions on world affairs.

While Dulles was talking about the international situation Sunday with Vice President Richard M. Nixon and later with his brother, Allen W. Dulles, several senators were disagreeing with a suggestion that the secretary resign.

Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) made the suggestion Saturday in St. Louis. He said he didn't think Dulles could run the State Department from a hospital.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) said later "Secretary Dulles is a patriot and I am sure he realizes the essential soundness of the suggestion made by Sen. Symington."

But Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, assistant Democratic floor leader, said he regards Dulles as almost indispensable at this time.

Sen. Homer Capehart (R-Ind) said Symington was carrying partisan politics too far. He called Symington's suggestion very cruel and unwarranted.

Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala) said he saw no need for making a replacement. He said Dulles "may bounce back. If anyone can, I believe he will."

Nixon's visit with Dulles at Walter Reed Army Medical Center lasted about 45 minutes, during which they talked about the Berlin crisis.

Dulles later talked for another 45 minutes with his brother, Allen, Central Intelligence chief. A medical bulletin Sunday said he had shown no adverse effects from his first two radiation treatments. The treatments are expected to continue six days a week, with a rest every Sunday, for three or four weeks.

Walls Should Be Put In Prime Shape Before Being Painted

Sure sign of springtime is the gentle rustling of catalogue pages as the homemaker scans paint samples prior to having YOU repaint one or more rooms.

By the time you've considered the fate awaiting you, there'll be just time to get the walls in condition for painting.

Painting should be done during those days when the furnace remains off a good portion of the day, and before remaining indoors is sheer punishment.

Even a clean wall should be wiped down thoroughly to remove dust. Grease spots around range and sink should be removed.

Doors, woodwork and other wood surfaces should be free of wax. Apply cleaning solution evenly, and wipe off with a clean, damp cloth.

ALL SURFACES should be clean, dry, and free of loose particles.

Patch all cracks in plaster surfaces. Hairline cracks are easily repaired by wetting and working in patching plaster with your fingers.

You can, too, purchase plaster patching material in stick form for repairing tiny surface cracks.

Larger holes and cracks require more preparation. Break away weak, loose plaster. Cut away the inner edges of area so that the hole is larger at the back than the front.

Moisten the old plaster around the area to be repaired. Then wet the new plaster and apply the quite to the top. After it hardens, wet the new plaster and apply the finish coat of plaster.

With a plaster's trowel smooth the finish coat. Try to make it level with the surrounding plaster.

Once it's absolutely dry, sand it down. Make sure that it's absolutely smooth.

SEAL THE PATCH with a glue size, or shellac for small cracks. Sealer prevents the fresh plaster from soaking up the paint.

If the old finish on the wall is a glossy one, dull it by washing with a solution of sal soda. If that doesn't do the trick, use sandpaper or steel wool.

If the previous finish is a water-thinned paint, you'll have to scrub solve under another coat of water-thinned paint, you'll have to scrub it off with a strong soap solution.

The alternative is sealing with a primer of oil paint.

If you plan to use a latex or water-thinned paint over wallpaper, better check to see what it does to the surface.

In some out of the way corner, try a little paint. The ink or dyes may bleed through. You can either seal the wallpaper with a thin coat of shellac, or remove the paper.

If you leave paper on, slit bubbles in wallpaper, smooth and repaste before painting.

Previously painted wood should be treated much the same as a plastered surface.

Clean the surface thoroughly. Dull glossy surfaces. If the old paint is in poor condition, remove it before painting.

If all walls are completely prepared before refinishing, painting will be shorter, easier, and result in a better-looking job.

Fir Plywood Must Be Given Extra 'Finishing' Attention

Plywood is designated by the type of wood used for its face. If the top ply is cut from a birch tree, the finished product is called birch plywood—and so on.

Most popular of all plywood is fir, not only because it is so plentiful but because it is the cheapest. It's the kind you get when you walk into a lumber yard and ask for plywood without any further designation. Lumber yards don't mind stocking it in large quantities, since they know it will move quickly.

An exceptionally strong material that is fairly easy to work, fir plywood must be given a little extra attention when it comes to finishing. That is because it has a wild grain which, when finished indiscriminately, insists on causing unpredictable results. But when properly primed or sealed, this material can be painted, enameled, varnished or given any other type of final coat.

As with all finishing, the first step is the preparation of the surface, which must be smooth, clean and without any traces of oil, grease or laminating glue. Nail holes and blemishes should be filled and sanded, followed by a wiping with turpentine or odorless solvent.

For an opaque finish which hides the grain completely, the first coat should be a flat oil or alkyd paint or a white resin sealer. Several companies make a resin sealer especially for sub-during the grain of fir plywood. This comes in white when the finish coat is to be paint or enamel—clear when the finish coat is to be clear, such as varnish, shellac or lacquer. Do not use a water-thinned paint for this first coat, as the water may raise the grain. When the initial coat has dried thoroughly, it should be sanded lightly and dusted clean. It may then be followed by one or two coats of the selected finishing material. If the finish coat is to be gloss enamel, the second coat can be a 50-50 mixture of enamel undercoat and the gloss enamel.

A blend effect can be obtained by using the white resin sealer or a white interior undercoat thinned about 50 per cent with turpentine or an odorless solvent. About 15 minutes after the sealer has been applied, it should be wiped with a dry cloth. When it has been wiped the grain will show through but the entire surface will have a blond appearance. Drying and sanding follow, after which another coat of resin sealer is applied—but this time the sealer should be the clear type. Don't Skip Undercoat

This clear resin sealer must also be used as the first coat when the final coat is to be varnish, shellac or lacquer. If this undercoat is skipped, an uneven result will occur, with some of the graining very dark and some very light.

Only exterior grade plywood should be used where the wood will be exposed to the elements. But even though waterproof glue has been used to laminate the various layers of wood, it is necessary to seal the exposed edges and ends of the plywood with an exterior primer.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Ambassador Has Interfered in U.S. Politics

Mikhail Menshikov, the Soviet ambassador to the United States, has violated diplomatic rules by a bold intervention in American politics. Heretofore, throughout American history, such an offense has meant sending the meddling ambassador home.

In this instance, Sen. James William Fulbright, David Lawrence chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, should be among the first to demand that Menshikov be expelled from this country. For the Soviet envoy has violated the confidence of the Arkansas senator by arranging for the publication by his son, Stanislaw Menshikov, in a recent issue of "New Times" a report of alleged conversations with Mr. Fulbright dealing with American politics.

In the article, the younger Menshikov says he was told, in effect, by Sen. Fulbright that if the Democrats win in 1960, the Soviets will have a better chance to get their way in world affairs.

NO SUCH INTIMATION probably was given by the Arkansas senator. The very fact that Ambassador Menshikov arranged for the government-controlled "New Times" — which is printed by the Soviet government in eight languages besides Russian and is distributed widely throughout the world — any article purporting to give his conversations with a United States senator, is a sign that he either doesn't know the rules of diplomatic relations or chooses to disregard them. The Menshikov article says:

"To what extent is the victory of the Democratic party at the elections likely to affect the foreign policy of the Republican government? Will the Democratic opposition be able and willing to compel the State Department to relinquish its policy?"

"I had an interview in Washington with Mr. James Fulbright, Democratic senator from Arkansas. The senator, a calm, sober-minded man of 53, with a slow, deliberate manner, thin hair, greying at the temples, light blue eyes and the old professorial trick of pering over his glasses as he listens to you, received me in his office in the new Senate Building."

The article then quotes with approval from speeches Mr. Fulbright made during the summer of 1959, which Menshikov cites as criticizing the American government for its Far Eastern and Middle Eastern policies and as "charging that the State Department was displaying a 'dangerous apathy' in allowing itself to be run by a 'bureaucracy so fearful of change that it clings desperately to the ancient pillars of policy even as they rot away under the pressure of irresistible developments.'"

More than any American, the British prime minister is keenly alive to the peculiar nuances of his own and other European foreign policies. For example, there is great question whether Gen. De Gaulle would welcome the return to a Germany 70 million strong, placing France in the same position of military and economic inferiority that encouraged the devastating German attacks of 1870, 1914 and 1940.

Is it certain even that Chancellor Adenauer would truly welcome the change from his present tidy Rhineland republic, dominated by his Christian Democrats, to a republic in which his party's strength would be far less predictable? Macmillan's opportunity is greater because the dominance Dulles has exercised over Western policy is dimmed. But by the same token Macmillan's weight of responsibility has increased.

Weather makes it a touch-and-go ordeal when the temperature is below freezing. There is no way to keep a barn warm, and if there were the sheep wouldn't tolerate warmth. For every reason, except lambing, they want to be where it's cold.

So the problem is to be equipped to keep the new lambs warm for the first hour. Even more than that, the problem is to guess when they will be born, so it doesn't happen without supervision if the temperature is low. It gets complicated when the shepherd cannot be on the job all the time.

There was the early morning last February, for example, when the 6:30 a.m. check disclosed three births going on simultaneously. One lamb already born was frozen; it could not be revived. Within a half hour its twin and two more twins had been born, rough-dried and put under heat lamps. All this was done, moreover, by a goose-fleshed shepherd who had gone to the barn in a bathrobe and a pair of slippers; there was no time to go back and put on proper clothing.

An expectant mother, fortunately, looks expectant. There is no other way to describe it. Due to the heavy fleece, which conceals the precise state of expectancy, there is more guesswork than there should be. The only obvious sign that time has run out is the way an expectant mother tries to be by herself for some hours before her labor begins.

THE ARTICLE went on to predict that Mr. Fulbright would become chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. The Menshikov article then continues: "My talk with him took place in late November. The senator had just returned from a trip to Asia and was full of energy and new opinion that war between the Soviet Union and the United States was senseless under all circumstances and that relations between our two countries must be improved at all costs. The whole point was how to do it."

"In the senator's opinion one splendid way to promote mutual understanding is through personal contacts and cultural ties. He said that the country was heading for a Republican defeat in the 1960 elections and a change in the government."

"The State Department would be obliged to some extent to reckon with the new trends in the country and in Congress. But, he added, the President and the members of his cabinet cannot be compelled to do anything they did not want to do, and hence he, Fulbright, did not believe there would be any serious change in U.S. foreign policy in the next two years. He did, however, believe that if the Democratic party were to be sufficiently active in this period it could prepare the ground for such changes by the time the new election came around."

Within the last few days, Premier Khrushchev made a speech in which he praised Sen. Mike Mansfield, (D-Mont), another member of the Foreign Relations Committee, for suggesting that the problem of Berlin be settled by direct negotiations between East and West.

THERE IS NO DOUBT that the Communists are taking every advantage of the practice which has grown up here in recent years whereby senators give the impression, perhaps unwittingly, that they speak for the people of the United States on foreign policy.

The Constitution makes the president alone the spokesman of the government in foreign affairs. But, with a divided government in Washington, the world now can't be sure who speaks for America.

As for the Soviets, they are brazenly disregarding all the amenities of diplomatic intercourse and meddling in American politics.

There was a time when foreign ambassadors and the members of their entourage thought it indiscreet even to call on a member of Congress in his office and, instead, confined contacts to social calls in the evening. But the Menshikov article shows that no such rules are being obeyed today and hence it would be proper now, and in accord with many precedents, for the Department of State to ask Moscow to recall Ambassador Menshikov as "persona non grata" to the United States government.

It's That Time Again

By TRUMAN TWILL

The hardy perennials among the Twillery sheep are about to go into their ever-blooming routine again. If it happened a thousand times, I'd still be as wide-eyed as I was the first time I walked out on a downtown banquet when the lady of the house summoned me home to inspect the first pair of newborn lambs.

A lot of bleating has echoed from the rafters since then and I'm still wide-eyed, though experience has calmed me down. These days I consider myself an old hand. I know most of the things that should be done in advance and all of the things not to do at the moment.

Weather makes it a touch-and-go ordeal when the temperature is below freezing. There is no way to keep a barn warm, and if there were the sheep wouldn't tolerate warmth. For every reason, except lambing, they want to be where it's cold.

So the problem is to be equipped to keep the new lambs warm for the first hour. Even more than that, the problem is to guess when they will be born, so it doesn't happen without supervision if the temperature is low. It gets complicated when the shepherd cannot be on the job all the time.

There was the early morning last February, for example, when the 6:30 a.m. check disclosed three births going on simultaneously. One lamb already born was frozen; it could not be revived. Within a half hour its twin and two more twins had been born, rough-dried and put under heat lamps. All this was done, moreover, by a goose-fleshed shepherd who had gone to the barn in a bathrobe and a pair of slippers; there was no time to go back and put on proper clothing.

An expectant mother, fortunately, looks expectant. There is no other way to describe it. Due to the heavy fleece, which conceals the precise state of expectancy, there is more guesswork than there should be. The only obvious sign that time has run out is the way an expectant mother tries to be by herself for some hours before her labor begins.

When the hardy perennials begin to lie around and ruminate thoughtfully — looking expectant — time is running out. It behooves a shepherd to be ready then with old bath towels for rough-drying, a snuggly pen for the first few important hours of life, plenty of extension cords, a loop of twine, a clean bucket, a sponge and a bottle of potable energizer for warding off ennui and a shepherd's malady known as "barn chill."

Lambing could be happening right now, or it could happen two weeks from now at 3:15 a.m. Lambs frequently are born as early as the first week of January. But the Twillery lambs always start to arrive in the last half of February and are present and accounted for by the Ides of March.

It takes a lot of bleating and cussing, cajoling and coaxing, anxiety and apprehension. But if it happened a thousand times, it still would be a thrill to watch a brand new lamb discover its voice, its eyesight, its power of locomotion and its mother, all in the first 15 minutes of its life. If all goes well that's all there is to it.

Otherwise, it can be as frantic and frustrating as trying to make a missile fly in the great game of keeping up with the Russians. There have been nights when I slept in my clothes and got up every hour to see how things were going. As sure as Mother Nature made lambs be born in time to eat buttercups, there will be nights like that again before the end of this month.

Union Curb--It Could Be Done

There is a choice in Congress this year among three kinds of union-curb legislation.

Sen. Kennedy, whose ideas of union reform were rejected as too mild last year, is backing a revised bill this year aimed directly at racketeering practices but ignoring other objectionable practices that now are inside the law.

The Eisenhower administration is backing a bill that would hit hard at racketeering practices and also would take away the appearance of legality from abuses of boycotting and picketing. This bill would reform not only the racketeers in unionism but some strong-arm operators who work inside the law.

A third bill will draw the attention that everything associated with Sen. John L. McClellan, the Arkansas Democrat who heads the Senate Rackets investigation, commands. It is McClellan's idea that certain basic concepts in the Taft-Hartley Act must be revised. This would entail opening this complex law for extensive alterations. It is his idea, also, that union activity in politics must be circumscribed, which is an issue in itself.

There is no fundamental conflict between the administration bill and the Kennedy bill. The former would put a stop to two intolerable practices that are now carried on in the name of proper procedure, besides hitting hard at other practices that are not proper procedure by any stretch of the imagination. The latter would hit hard at the shady practices, without tackling the problems of blackmail picketing and secondary boycotting.

The McClellan concept, on the other hand, goes far beyond the first two bills. In any prospect of union reform, it would have to be put down as a second or even a third step. The first step—and perhaps the second—would need to be less drastic. They would need to be able to command the necessary votes in Congress.

This is not the time to bite off more union curbing than can be chewed. Politics sometimes is called the art of the possible. What is possible in 1959 is a sound bill to curb racketeering and outlaw misuses of the boycott and the picket line that have exhausted the patience of even unionism's friends.

The surest way to have no union reform legislation at all is to try to have such harsh proposals that no congressman will dare to vote for it.

There Could Be a Showdown

The thing no one else has proposed seriously up to now has been proposed by David Lawrence the columnist whose castigations of the Supreme Court have been so unrelenting that Chief Justice Warren is reported to keep track of them day by day.

Mr. Lawrence wants to take the sting out of the 14th Amendment to the Constitution by rewriting it to say that "the people of any state may provide . . . for a referendum vote, at a special election to be called solely for that purpose, and may by such referendum amend the state constitution to establish within any such state complete and exclusive control by the state over its educational institutions, programs and curricula, including the right to assign pupils to any school supported by public revenue on whatever basis the State Legislature may determine."

This would have the effect of suspending the effect of the 14th Amendment on all matters pertaining to education. The principle of equal protection of laws would be sidetracked as far as education was concerned.

Mr. Lawrence has argued ably in his newspaper column that it should be sidetracked in this respect. He has indicated at times that he would like to have it sidetracked in other respects, too, though his proposal refers only to educational institutions.

His idea may be expected to meet with favor in states resisting educational integration. States that withhold the right to vote from part of their citizens also may be expected to support it as a rebuke to the authority of the federal government. It would be the logical beginning of a schism that could bring about another division in the Union between states that recognize federal authority and states that reject it.

If it came to a vote, there could be a showdown on sentiment about the Supreme Court's attempt to make the 14th amendment mean what millions of children have been taught it means. Those who argue no matter how ably that it always has meant something else, would discover, we believe, that the principle stated in the 14th amendment is vastly stronger than they ever dreamed it was, even in the South.

The Quakers Can Do It!

There never has been a Salem High School basketball game where the fans failed to show up in great numbers to cheer the Quakers on to victory.

It was no different at Youngstown South fieldhouse Saturday night when the Quakers hit the tournament trail and won their first game in the sectional eliminations by beating Newton Falls 71-51. So many of the faithful rooters were on hand that some visitors from other schools asked if the whole town had turned out.

Figuratively, that was true. All Salem is solidly behind its fine team. Attendance at the regular season games proved that. There was hardly an empty seat at any of the games in the spacious gymnasium at the new senior high school.

As the Quakers face future opponents in tournament play, the players have the knowledge and assurance that no team on the court has better support. Our cheers and our prayers go with Coach John Cabas' all-star squad as it continues in tournament competition. The goal is the state tournament at Columbus. The Quakers can do it!

Once Over

Ed Murrow's taking of a year's vacation is still being widely discussed, with many rumors of friction with the high brass. How about a three-way "Small World" interview between Murrow, Bill Paley and a TV fan?

Q. Mr. TV Fan, were you surprised by Mr. Murrow's action?

A. I sure was. It was the only quiz show where guests remained after discovering there were no prizes.

Q. I understand, Mr. Murrow, that you had a contract permitting a year's vacation?

A. Anybody in this business is crazy if he doesn't have it especially if he works without a ballet, compony or guitar.

Q. What's new with you, Mr. Paley?

A. If it isn't one thing in life at CBS it's another.

Q. Today we are discussing the unemployment situation. Do you know anything about it, Mr. Murrow?

A. Are you kidding?

Q. What I mean is do you think the latest government figures on unemployment were correct?

A. I know they were wrong by one man.

Q. Are you listening, Mr. Paley?

A. Yes, but I don't want to get into this subject too much, for personal reasons. In radio and TV people come and go every day. It hardly comes in the unemployment category.

Q. Mr. Murrow, under what category would you say it comes?

A. Under the category of weather changes shifts in the wind, inter-office disputes and games of chance.

Q. The announcement said you wished a change of perspective. Were you having perspective trouble at CBS?

A. I deny there were moments when Bill Paley and I couldn't see each other across the room.

Q. What about stories there were strained relations between you and other top brass at CBS?

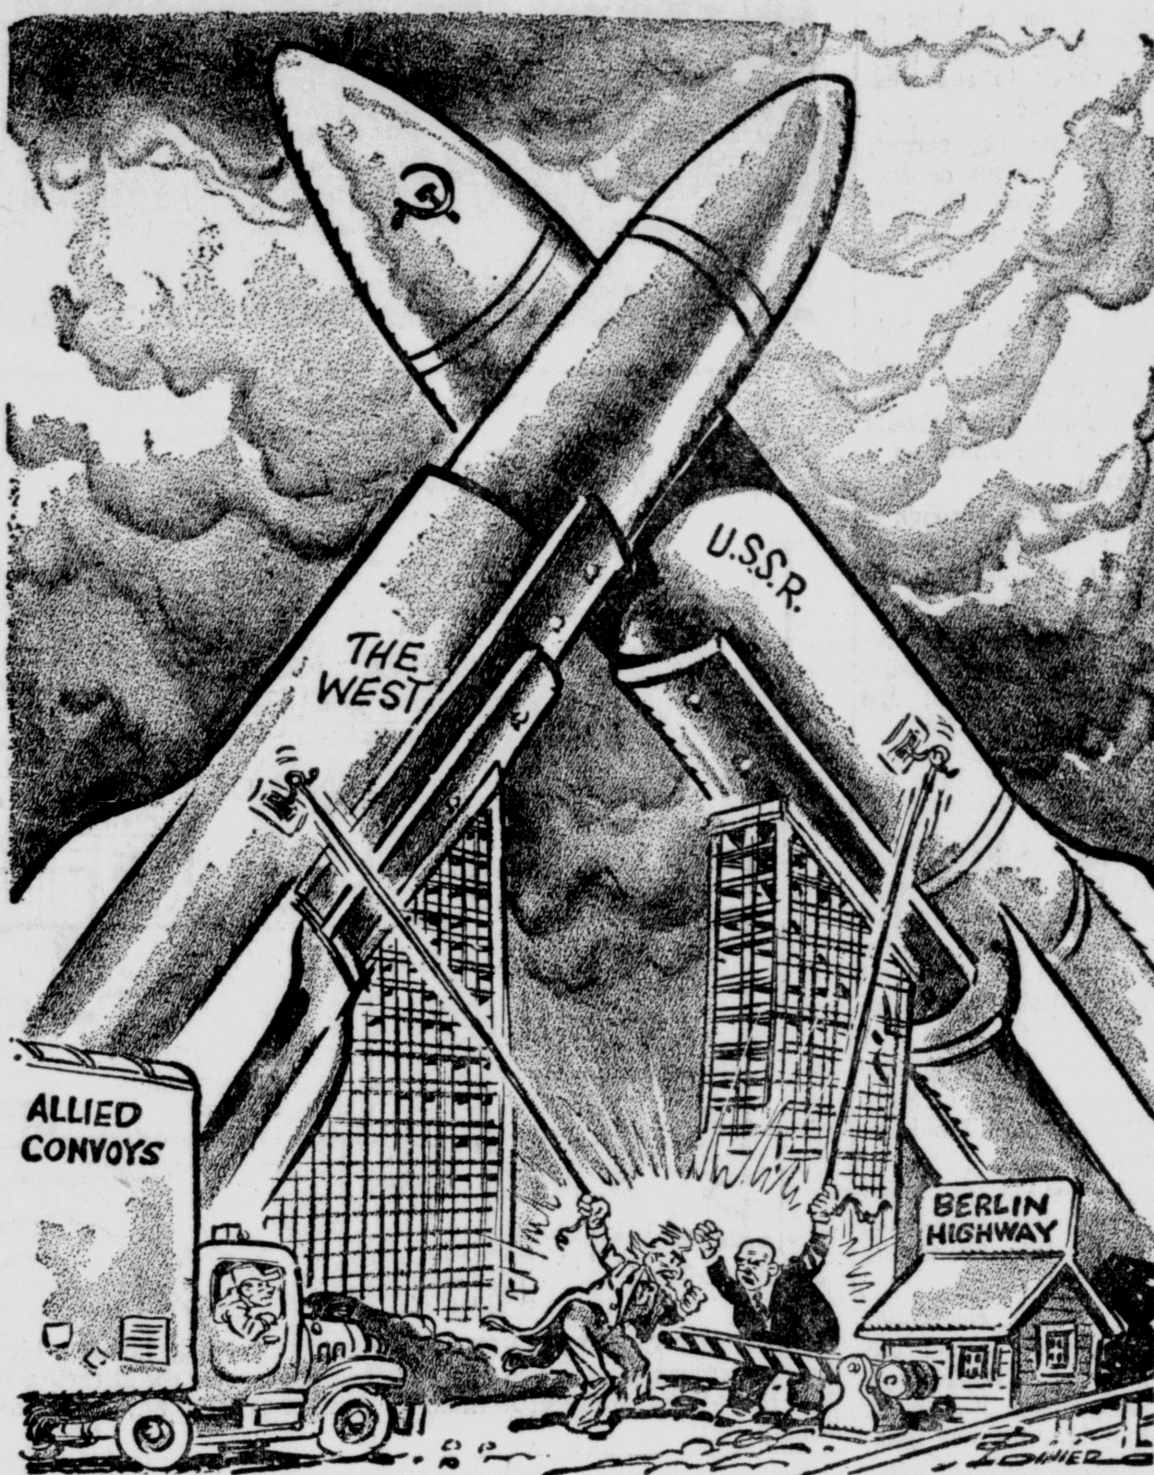

A. Our relations were so friendly you could cut them with a knife but I will not discuss rumors, that's what they were using!

Macmillan's Vital Role

By JAY G. HAYDEN

Illness of Secretary of State Dulles has greatly increased the importance of the meeting between Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Great Britain and his Russian counterpart, Nikita Khrushchev.

In marked contrast to President Eisenhower's almost complete dependence on Dulles, Macmillan has been very much his own foreign minister.

Furthermore, Macmillan, of all the Western chiefs, seemingly is the most elastic regarding terms for getting together with Russia. He also is under the greatest political pressure at home to achieve a quick settlement.

Dealing with Macmillan's personal interest first: He must call a parliamentary election to be held not later than May, 1960.

Until very recently he had seemed to favor an election this May but events at home and abroad (the latter including the Russian threat to precipitate a showdown concerning Berlin that same month) have prompted postponement. But Macmillan still is looking avidly for the earliest election date favorable to his side — not later than next autumn, most of the London prognosticators say.

Because the British Labor party all along has been pushing for concessions to the Russians in the interest of ending the cold war, any advancement in that direction would be a great feather in Macmillan's political cap—and this especially if he personally led in achieving it.

MACMILLAN insists that he carries to Moscow no specific proposals, that his mission is solely one of exploration. But there have been various indications as to what may be his main lines of approach. One of them is a suggestion by his predecessor, Anthony Eden, during the Summit Meeting in 1955, that Russia and its East European satellites join with the West in a mutual guaranty of protection from attack by a rearmament Germany.

And even before Secretary of State Dulles and Chancellor Adenauer successfully abandoned free election as the only way of reuniting Germany, Macmillan had leaned toward allowing the two Germanies to settle that issue by direct negotiations between themselves.

The first necessity, however, is to find out what Khrushchev really is aiming for and what he might give in return for Western concessions.

It is certain, for one thing, that Khrushchev greatly resents the military bases spotted all around his borders and now being implemented with atomic weapons, in easy range of Russia's most vital centers.

But would the Soviet, in return for the drawing back of those bases, reciprocate in kind? Would it consent, for example, to a reunited and politically free Germany with the condition that all foreign forces, Communist and anti-Communist, be withdrawn from German soil?

And if the Kremlin refuses to deal on that line, just what will it offer as a basis for a firmly settled peace, with or without the West, up to now, has set as the supreme requisite?

THERE ARE a multitude of other suggestions offered from the West in the interest of peace which remain moot because of the failure of the Russians to accede to even half of what was proposed as their contribution to the bargain.

More than any American, the British prime minister is keenly alive to the peculiar nuances of his own and other European foreign policies. For example, there is great question whether Gen. De Gaulle would welcome the return to a Germany 70 million strong, placing France in the same position of military and economic inferiority that encouraged the devastating German attacks of 1870, 1914 and 1940.

Is it certain even that Chancellor Adenauer would truly welcome the change from his present tidy Rhineland republic, dominated by his Christian Democrats, to a republic in which his party's strength would be far less predictable?

Macmillan's opportunity is greater because the dominance Dulles has exercised over Western policy is dimmed. But by the same token Macmillan's weight of responsibility has increased.

Airports In Jet Age

By JERRY BENNETT

U. S. airports are undergoing a gigantic face-lifting program in an effort to meet the stream-line demands of the commercial jet age.

Terminals are expanding, plans for new airports are taking shape and a multitude of time-saving passenger service gimmicks are being invented to handle the airborne traveler boom.

The problem of adequately serving the growing number of passengers is expected to become especially acute when more of the new jet airliners start delivering people at faster intervals to the country's already overcrowded airports.

OFFICIALS OF THE Federal Aviation Agency estimate that by 1960 the nation's terminals will handle 15,000 passengers every hour. This is an increase of 4,000 over last year's hourly passenger load.

Thus, emphasis in airport improvements is being placed on finding ways to speed passengers through the terminals to and from the planes. A solution, which is already being adopted by some airports, is to separate incoming from outgoing passengers.

One way this is done is by constructing two-story terminal buildings. Passengers who have just landed use one level while those who are getting ready to depart are directed to the other. This system eliminates the confusion and frequent collisions which occur when everyone has to pass through the same part of the terminal.

PLANES WILL BE parked next to the building and loaded under its large, overhanging roof. Passengers will board their flight by walking down a special ramp that leads directly from the lounge to the plane's entrance. Another ramp connected from the aircraft to a lower terminal level will handle disembarking passengers.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Confidential mail dispatched from labor's central political headquarters in Washington to the nation's union chiefs discloses a drive for an unprecedented $2,700,000 campaign chest — though 1959 is an off-year of local elections. This political war fund goal is one million dollars higher than the quota the AFL-CIO's committee on Political Education (COPE) set for itself in last year's successful campaign to put a majority of its friends in Congress.

The cash pool is for the use of the central office. It generally is matched many times by unions out in the field.

Should you be curious over whom these millions — if collected — will back, there is evidence that not a dime will go for Rockefeller or any other Republican of consequence between now and '61.

Wages to be Set For Berry Pickers

LISBON — Wages for berry pickers will be set when the berry growers of Columbiana, Mahoning and other nearby counties hold their annual institute Wednesday at Heck's Restaurant, Columbiana.

The program will begin at 10 a.m. with Eldon S. Banta, extension horticulturist at Ohio State University, showing pictures on "Strawberry Growing East of the Rocky Mountains."

Ed Watkins of the Mahoning County Extension Office at Canfield will discuss "Merchandising of Berries." Charles Zolar, Benton Harbor Nurseryman, will discuss his berry operation and, Columbiana County agent Floyd Lower will report on test varieties and seed plots. Election of committees will complete the morning schedule.

In the afternoon, Zolar will discuss practices for saving labor costs, and David Friday of Hartford, Mich., will give an illustrated talk on labor-saving equipment.

Banta will review cultural practices for maintaining high yields. Lower will be in charge of a discussion on sales promotion, advertising, marketing and buying supplies cooperatively.

TRY SALEM NEWS WANT ADS

and well-preserved Central Trades Council was assembled for its annual Lincoln Day dinner.

A Western Union messenger arrived with a telegraphed note from Gov. Rockefeller. He was detained. The telegram was read. The diners booed — not at his being detained, but at him, his party and his program.

Gov. Rockefeller was not the only one in his party who was learning that labor had not the slightest intention of breaking with the Democrats — not even of chipping away a bit. Another liberal Republican, U.S. Secretary of Labor James Mitchell, has tried to win the unions over but this past week appeared to be giving up.

He had been scheduled to appear before the AFL-CIO Executive Council in Puerto Rico. Mitchell has a grapevine relationship with some labor people — and he learned from them that the high command was waiting for him to set foot on the island so they could send him back to President Eisenhower with some mighty tough messages about higher spending.

JIM MITCHELL, a GOP vice-presidential hopeful, thought that tempers might get too hot in the warm Caribbean sun and stayed in freezing Washington.

From further confidential letters mailed early in February by James McDevitt, national director of COPE, it is evident that labor is not wasting a day in its anti-Republican build-up this year.

A communication to the nation's labor leaders dated Feb. 6, reveals why COPE has set this quiet political year's campaign budget a million dollars higher than the last one:

"During 1959 the Committee on Political Education will hold 20 area conferences in three series, throughout the country," this letter discloses.

In the past there have been only eight such two-day parleys during which labor's local politicians were briefed, braintrustered and pepped.

Here is the dramatic section of the communication:

"We feel that by having more conferences, each involving fewer states, the delegates will be enabled to discuss more intimately and thoroughly the procedures and problems of our political program involving registration, communication of issues and campaign problems."

"Because of the importance of these conferences, we hope to have delegates from as many local unions as possible. We would deeply appreciate your advising your locals of the dates and locations, as well as the states involved, urging them to send at least one delegate."

IN STILL ANOTHER communication, COPE chief McDevitt asks the national labor men to help him take an inventory of the success of the political activity of every local in the land.

He says that more than 1,000 replies have come into central headquarters. These are being analyzed. But they are not enough. The entire labor movement is being polled so weaknesses can be discovered long before the 1960 election.

"Strategy 1960" has been so smoothly worked out that the special administrative committee of COPE, which traditionally meets and reports to labor's high command at its mid-winter session, decided not to go to Puerto Rico.

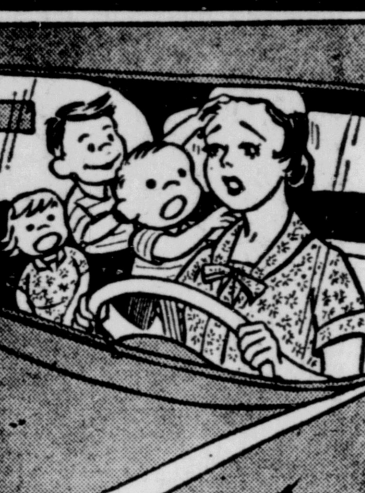

The politicians knew what they wanted. Wasting time was not on its lists.

SAFE DRIVING TIP

A motorist should never be distracted while driving. Children in the front seat can prove extremely bothersome to the driver, and safety seats are recommended for youngsters to make sure they do not interfere with the driver's concentration. Common sense dictates that young children should not be allowed freedom of movement in the front seat while the car is in motion, points out the Chicago Motor Club. At no time should a child be permitted within easy reach of the car's driving mechanisms.

Mahoning 4-H Group Names '59 Officers

The Mahoning County 4-H Advisory Council met Feb. 13 in the farm extension office in Canfield to review plans for the 1959 4-H Club year.

Officers were elected as follows: Chairman, Darrel Bacon, New Springfield; vice chairman, R. E. Withers, RD 4, Salem; secretary, Mrs. Frank Deckant, RD 2, Canfield; assistant secretary, Mrs. Earl Cooley, RD 1, North Lima. Mrs. John Repasky, of RD 2, Lowellville, was elected for a three-year term as 4-H Council representative to the County Extension Advisory Committee. Patricia Renouf of Ellsworth was elected for a one-year term to the Extension Advisory Committee representing 4-H members.

It was decided that 4-H Council would select county winners in the National 4-H Awards Program from nominations made by advisors.

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP)—Services will be held Tuesday for State Rep. William F. Roskar (D-Ottawa) who suffered a heart attack Friday and died Sunday in Magruder Hospital, Roskar, 68, was serving his third term in the Legislature.

Jerry Wolford of Salem was organist and accompanied Edward Shoff of Salem, who sang "I Love You Truly," "Whither Thou Goest" and "Saviour Like a Shepherd Lead Us" as the couple knelt at the altar.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride was attired in a gown fashioned of satin and lace enhanced by an overskirt of pleated nylon tulle. Lace and tulle edged the scoop neckline of the long sleeved lace bodice.

Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was attached to a cap, trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a heart-shaped arrangement of white carnations. Her pearl pendant was a gift from the bridegroom.

Attendants for the bride, Miss Nancy Tullis of Salem and Miss Nancy Hough of Lisbon, sister of the bridegroom, appeared in gowns of red nylon chiffon over taffeta. Their headbands featured circular veils. Red and white carnations formed their heart-shaped bouquets. They wore rhinestone heart-shaped necklaces, gifts of the bride.

Donald Hough of Lisbon was his brother's best man. The ushers were Jack Thorne of Canton, Ted Thorne of Salem and Amzi Hough of Lisbon.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Thorne chose a brown silk print dress with beige accessories and a corsage of yellow carnations. Mrs. Hough wore a red carnation corsage with her black two-piece dress.

A reception for 125 guests was held at the Metzger Hotel. The room was decorated in the Valentine theme. The bride's table was centered with a four-tiered cake, topped with a bridal figurine.

Mrs. Jack Thorne, Mrs. Alfred Cunningham, Iva Shoff, Janet Barton, Mrs. Edward Shoff and Mrs. Edward Wilson served the guests from Salem, Lisbon, Columbiana, East Liverpool, Alliance, Chester, W. Va., Holsopple, and McKeesport, Pa.

Mrs. Hough is a graduate of Salem High School and is employed by the American Standard Corp. Her husband graduated from David Anderson High School in Lisbon and served two years in the Army in Alaska. He is employed by the Columbiana Foundry.

For traveling, the bride wore a two-piece aqua suit with brown accessories and the corsage from her bridal bouquet. Upon their return, the couple will reside at 2204 E. State St.

Mrs. Kenneth Lee Davis

Miss Carol Kentzel Becomes Bride of Kenneth Lee Davis

Miss Carol Gail Kentzel became the bride of Kenneth Lee Davis Saturday in a double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m. in the Calla Evangelical United Brethren Church.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Kentzel Jr. of RD 5, Salem. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davis of RD 5, Salem are the bridegroom's parents.

The Rev. Herbert C. Hoover officiated at the candlelight service. The altar, banked with palms and ferns, was enhanced by an arrangement of white carnations.

Tapers in the windows and in seven-branch candelabra at the altar lighted the sanctuary. Bows marked the family pews.

Mrs. Ralph Dutter of Windham was pianist. Mrs. Clarence V. Olin of Canfield sang "O Promise Me," "At Dawning," "O Perfect Love," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white bouquet taffeta gown with overskirt of net trimmed with Chantilly lace flower inserts.

The matching lace bodice was designed with a scoop neck and long tapered sleeves. Her lace cap was adorned with flowers, each centered with a rhinestone. The shoulder-length veil was fashioned of silk illusion.

The pearl necklace she wore was a gift from the bridegroom.

Her wedding bouquet was a cascade of white roses and lily of the valley.

Mrs. Walter E. Feicht, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a leaf green gown of polished silk cotton with sweetheart neckline and bouffant skirt. White fur trimmed the bolero jacket and formed her headpiece. She carried a colonial bouquet of peppermint and white carnations.

John L. Firth of Salem was best man. Donald Smith of Alliance and James Grove of Leetonia ushered.

The brides' mother wore a dusty rose taffeta dress which she complemented with beige accessories and a white carnation corsage. Mrs. Davis wore a Copenhagen blue dress with matching accessories and white carnations.

A reception was held in the church social rooms. A bride and bridegroom figurine topped the three-tiered wedding cake which was decorated with white rosebuds and doves and encircled with fern. The refreshment table was covered with a handmade lace cloth.

Mrs. William H. Loar, Mrs. Donald Smith, Mrs. June Utterback and Miss Mary Herbert served. The 200 guests from Salem, Leetonia, Washingtonville, Canfield, Alliance, Greenford, North Lima, Columbiana, Youngstown and Poland were registered by Miss Virginia Lodwick.

The bride is a 1954 graduate of Greenford High School. She works with her parents in the operation of Kentzel Farms.

Mr. Davis, a 1954 graduate of Salem High School, engaged in farming with his father.

The couple's honeymoon destination is Homestead, Fla., where they will visit with the bride's sister, Mrs. Thomas V. Core.

For her going away outfit, Mrs. Davis chose a charcoal gray suit with white accessories, and she wore the white rosebud corsage from her bridal bouquet.

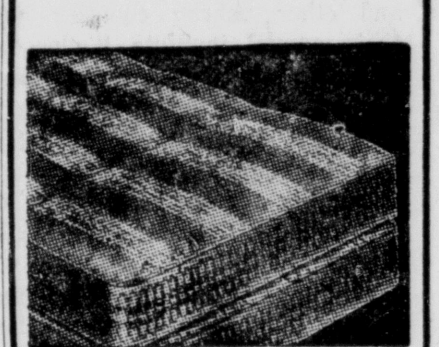

Gifts were presented to the attendants at the rehearsal party Friday night at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

CHILDREN OF THE BIBLE

by Patrick and Garrison

CAIN

"And Adam knew Eve his wife: and she conceived, and bare Cain..."

—Genesis 4:1

Cain, the first murderer, was also the first-born of Adam and Eve.

He was a tiller of the soil. From his earliest childhood he had labored in the fields. There he became skillful in husbandry; and he was proud of the abundance he produced from the rich earth, to feed his parents and his brother Abel.

But, though he lived near the eternal life of the earth that pushed upward to the light with each spring shoot, it was anger, envy and death that grew within Cain's mind.

Because Jehovah accepted the offering of Abel the shepherd and rejected his, Cain lured his brother to a lonely field and struck him dead.

Why had God accepted Abel's offering and rejected Cain's? Perhaps because God searches the heart, and in that of Abel He found purity and truth.

Cain, on the other hand, was vain, greedy, and selfish. Some Old Testament commentators say that he probably offered God only the worthless part of his produce or the remnant of his flaxseed meal.

Whatever the cause, Cain represents the hatred and jealousies that have divided man from his brother ever since.

As he looked upon his terrible deed, fear gripped his heart. What had he done? Why did his brother lie so still, his blood upon the ground?

Cain was sorry for what he had done, but repentance did not bring Abel back to life. With a final horrified look at his brother's crumpled body, he fled.

He ran as swiftly as he could from the place of the crime. But he could not outrun God, nor his conscience.

"The voice of thy brother's blood crieth unto me from the ground," God whispered to him as he ran.

For his crime, Cain was cursed and banished from his familiar fields. But before he left for the land of Nod (wandering), he asked God to place upon him a mark as a sign of God's protection against the vengeance of men.

And this God did, as an act of mercy, because Cain was humbly contrite.

Familiar Faces

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—If the faces you see on television seem terribly familiar, there's a reason. "Television is badly in need of fresh faces," said Merv Griffin. "But everybody's afraid to gamble on new talent."

Griffin, singing emcee, feels the industry needs to develop a system by which it can uncover and help mature outstanding young entertainers.

"There is no sure way today for promising performers to be discovered," he said. "It's harder than ever for great instrumentalists, for example, to get started. There must be some Artie Shaws and Benny Goodman of tomorrow around but they're unrecognized. The colleges in particular are being overlooked. They produce concert artists, but why don't they turn out more entertainers in the field of popular music?"

Merv himself quit college in 1945 at the age of 18 to take a $1150-a-week job singing on a San Francisco radio station.

"I figured that with that kind of money I could buy the university in a couple of years, and issue myself any diplomas I needed," he recalled, smiling. Three years later he quit to tour with Freddie Martin's band at only $150 a week.

"Everybody thought I was crazy to take a $1,000 weekly pay cut," he said. "But I wanted to see the country, and I didn't want to spend my life as a one-town performer."

Griffin spent four years on the road made a top-hit record, three pictures in Hollywood, had his own radio variety show and did a night club stint with Tallulah Bankhead.

"A touring dance band is the greatest training school in the world for a singer," he said. "One night you're singing in a Pennsylvania night club; the next night you're opening at the Waldorf."

"You learn how to please any kind of audience. You learn what music has universal appeal."

"Where can you get that kind of training now? The bands don't play around so much today."

Griffin thinks the discovery of fresh talent today is largely a hit-or-miss matter.

"A kid runs out and makes a record, rolls it to the nearest company. There they usually toss it into the wastebasket," he said.

"But suppose they do put it out and it becomes an overnight hit. The kid usually dies overnight, too. Very few last. They don't get the training."

Actress Janet Blair Mother of Baby Girl

nickel bet might bring $35 because of high odds.

Vice Squad Lt. Carl A. Lind, who did added research on numbers in his spare time over the past month, said in a confidential report last August that clearing houses for the numbers racket "are all located in Newport, Ky."

The first blast Saturday night injured Mrs. Sue Bohannon and her two children. They were released after treatment at General Hospital. The second blast caused damage to a home but no injuries.

Marshall Robert Sommers of the arson squad said dynamite may have caused the first blast and the explosion was set "with intention of blowing up the house."

Police said Andrews gave these details:

A truce was arranged between three big numbers operators after the murder of Mrs. Lillie Bohannon. Andrews worked for the combine one week and then pulled out, taking some workers, including Mrs. Sue Bohannon, sister-in-law of the slain woman. Andrews said the bombing was apparently revenge because others believed he was taking too much business.

Township Groups Discuss Mahoning Local School Issue

Representatives of township civic groups and service clubs met with the Township Community Council at Knox Elementary School Sunday afternoon to discuss projects and problems, prominent among which was the Mahoning Local School District situation.

Chairman of the Council, Glen Moffett of Damascus, explained the function of the Community Council and how such groups operate in other rural areas of the state.

He pointed out that "the council is not intended to supplant or abridge the purposes of the indi-

Policemen, Citizens Differ On Ohio Capital Punishment Issue

By ART PARKS
Associated Press Writer

"Mixed" is the most popular—and perhaps most accurate—word being used these days to describe Ohioans' reaction to Gov. Michael V. DiSalle's proposal to abolish capital punishment.

An Associated Press grass roots survey in widely scattered areas of Ohio, however, brings the reaction picture into this focus:

If a decision on the issue were left to police chiefs, sheriffs and common pleas judges, Ohio would continue to exact "an eye for an eye." It would continue its policy of legally killing those guilty of premeditated murder or those who slay on-duty policemen.

But, if the decision were left to average citizens and their clergymen, Ohio probably would abolish the death penalty.

It would appear, then, that if DiSalle's proposed abolition is decided by the Legislature, it possibly could lose—because opinions of public officials usually carry more weight with legislators than the opinions of miscellaneous citizens.

On the other hand, if the decision were to go to the voters a ban on the use of Ohio's electric chair probably would stand a better chance.

This creates a strange situation: The governor has told newsmen he believes it is the Legislature's responsibility to make the decision. Yet, apparently, he is more likely to get his proposal approved if it goes to a vote of the people.

The House Judiciary Committee opens hearings Wednesday morning on two bills to end the death penalty.

Some of the pro-and-con arguments the committee hears will be similar to these comments gleaned from scores of interviews by Associated Press newspapers across the state:

The Rev. Sidney McCammon, pastor of the Episcopal Church of the Ascension, Middletown, quoting from the Book of Common Prayer:

"God desireth not the death of a sinner, but rather that he may turn from wickedness and live." Mahoning County Common Pleas Judge Erskine Maiden Jr.: "Capital punishment should not be a part of our modern civilization; it accomplishes nothing and does not deter crime."

Scioto County Sheriff C. Russell Burns: "Fear of the death penalty has stopped many would-be murderers. I don't think most states that have abolished capital punishment are satisfied with the new setup."

Canton Police Chief J. B. Quilligan: "Governments down through the ages have accepted capital punishment to maintain law and order. Sometimes it is only just and realistic punishment to fit the crime."

Lorain businessman Martin J. Mariotti: "I have always opposed the death penalty. It really doesn't accomplish anything worthwhile."

Massillon Mayor Edgar L. Lash: "I am against capital punishment, but if it is to be abolished I think the entire penal structure in Ohio should be stiffened to provide greater deterrent to crime."

Marion County Common Pleas Judge Paul D. Smith: "I probably would be for the law as it is, but I think every precaution must be taken to prevent error."

Pickaway County Common Pleas Judge William Ammer: "Never in the history of the state has there been any evidence whatsoever to show that a mistake was made in the cases of the 307 persons who have died in the electric chair."

Mrs. Walter Wendt Jr., a young Middletown mother: "Even if one of my own family had been murdered, I still think I'd favor severe punishment for the guilty rather than taking a life for a life."

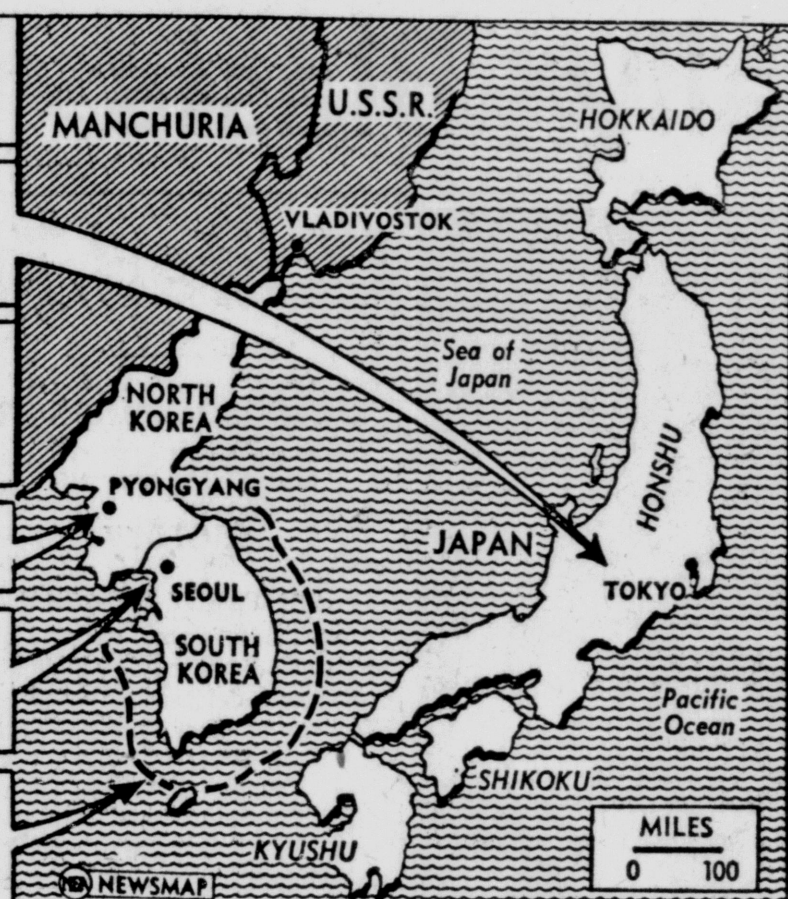

While that is a fair sampling of statewide sentiment, people do change their minds. Take, for instance, Gov. DiSalle, who first recommended as a substitute for the death penalty a life sentence "without hope without parole, without pardon."

It didn't take the governor long to decide the "without hope" suggestion was hasty and ill-advised.

Such a policy would develop a breed of desperate people, he acknowledged after he had thought it over.

Whereupon, Ohio's penal officials breathed a private sigh of relief.

- Some 600,000 Koreans live in Japan, most brought over during Japan's 40-year occupation of Korea which ended in 1945.
- "General Federation of Korean Residents in Japan," a left-wing group, has launched drive to repatriate Koreans to North Korea; claims 117,000 want to go to the Communist state.
- Japan estimates the figures as no more than 43,000 and as low as 1,000; states it will allow any Koreans who wish to leave to do so; has appealed to International Red Cross to investigate the situation.
- North Korean government has stated it will guarantee jobs and homes for repatriates.
- Republic of Korea (South Korea) opposes plan; claims jurisdiction over all Korean nationals; says it will stop plan "at any cost"; warns armed forces are ready to go into action.
- ROK has told Japan it will continue to hold 150 Japanese fishermen seized for trespassing South Korea's 60-mile fishing limit if Japan goes through with repatriation.

FAR EAST RUMBLINGS—Newsmag above lists the elements of a situation that threatens to result in a complete break between two American Far Eastern allies, Japan and South Korea. Japan is under fire from two sides—South Korea, and Koreans in Japan (or their Communist organizers) desiring repatriation to North Korea. So far, South Korea refuses mediation by the Red Cross. Although the U.S. has announced no plans to step in, State Department spokesmen have acknowledged that Washington is concerned over the matter.

Veterans Guide

By Veterans Administration

Q—I have just entered school under the Korean GI Bill. How long is the usual waiting period before receipt of my first GI allowance check?

A—Normally, about two months. Under the law, you may not be paid until after a month of classroom work is completed, and the law allows VA 20 additional days to process your certificate of attendance and to mail your check, filing a claim for VA disability compensation?

Q—Is there any deadline for filing a claim for VA disability compensation?

A—There is no deadline. A veteran may apply at any time. However, if an eligible veteran applies within a year from the date of his release from service, compensation may be back-dated to the day following his release from service. A veteran applying after he has been out of service a year may be paid only from the date his application was filed.

Q—I understand there is a new ruling whereby a disabled veteran may now get a head start toward rehabilitation by beginning vocational training while still a patient in a VA hospital. Will you explain this, please?

A—The new ruling permits training for veterans who are far enough along in their hospital treatment to be able to leave the hospital part of the day to attend school. Formerly, veterans generally had to be out of the hospital before they could start rehabilitation training.

Q—I'm a Korea veteran, holding GI term insurance. Is it true that I now can convert my term insurance to a permanent plan?

A—Yes. Korea veterans holding term insurance with the letters "RS" before the policy numer now may convert to one of six permanent VA plans.

Proper Calcium Intake Important

Calcium is one of the most important elements of the body. Chemical combinations of calcium are particularly needed by the teeth and bones, although calcium is required also in other parts of the body. Calcium salts play an important part in the clotting of the blood and in the control of the heartbeat.

CALCIUM TAKEN into the body must be in a form which can be easily absorbed and used. Vitamin D helps in the use of calcium. This vitamin is formed by the action of sunlight on the skin or it can be given in prepared form. A hormone, produced by one of the internal glands called the parathyroid, which is emptied into the blood from that gland is also important in calcium use.

When vitamin D is not present in sufficient quantities, the calcium is not deposited properly and the bones become soft and pliable, producing rickets, bow legs or other changes in the skeleton.

If the parathyroid glands are removed the amount of calcium in the blood drops rapidly regardless of the amount of calcium taken in. This causes a condition called tetany, which produces muscular spasms.

Other signs of calcium deficiency are osteomalacia (softened bones) and osteoporosis (porous bones). In many cases these are of obscure origin.

TOO MUCH CALCIUM can be present in the tissues as well as too little. For example, a good deal of the material deposited in the walls of hardened arteries (arteriosclerosis) consists of calcium. As yet, no way has been found to dissolve or remove excess calcium in the arteries, nor is there any practical method of preventing these deposits.

Dairy products supply good quantities of calcium. Infants and growing children who need calcium for their rapidly growing bones, get most of their calcium from milk. Additional calcium can be supplied in various tablet or capsule forms.

Will he take away an American steelworker's job?

Meet Vladimir Petrov, Russian steelworker. He earns about 56 rubles a day.

American steelworkers earn $24.00 a day...four times as much as steelworkers of Western Europe, over four times as much as Vladimir, and seven times as much as Japanese steelworkers.

So what?

So this: Many foreign countries have zoomed their output of steel—they're selling it all over the world—and in increasing amounts even in the U.S.A. For instance, more barbed wire is being imported here from abroad than American mills are producing.

Soaring costs in this country are hurting the American steelworker as he tries to compete with his counterparts all over the world...European and Japanese steel producers are even now underselling American steel right here in this country. Some American steelworkers have already lost their jobs just for this reason; foreign steelworkers have gotten their jobs.

Certainly it will not help America if the spread between U.S. and foreign wages is increased. It will only serve to export jobs.

Isn't it time to stop this inflationary rise in wage costs that is undermining the job security of American workers?

The American Iron and Steel Institute brings you this message from the steel industry because

Salem's 2nd Half Rally Blasts Newton Falls 71-51

4 Quakers Hit Double Figures

Locals To Meet South Friday Night at 7:30

By GORDON ARNDT
Salem's Quakers, down by one point at the half, rallied themselves in the second half on the rebounding of Clyde Marks and the scoring of Lou Slaby to successfully cross over their first tournament obstacle at Youngstown's South High field house Saturday night by defeating a determined Newton Falls quintet 71-51.

The opposing Tigers were hot in the first two periods sinking 12 of 27 shots for 44 per cent to grab a 32-31 margin at intermission. Their keen shooting from behind screens near Salem's foul circle enabled them to carry the fight to the vaunted Red and Black for a full 16 minutes. Salem led 31-30 with two seconds to go in the half when Newton Falls' Roger Carrier hit a jump shot from the corner to give his team the lead.

The Tigers kept this lead for just 31 seconds after the start of the third quarter. Salem's Clyde Marks sunk two foul shots with 7:29 on the clock and the Quakers went into the lead to stay at 33-32.

Four Quakers scored in the double figures. Woody Deitch was high with 18 while Lou Slaby had 16. Dan Krichbaum 15 and Dave Hunter 13.

For the losers Jim Mathie collected 16 and Paul Kopki 15. Salem's play in the third period was spearheaded by Marks' rebounding and a concerted team effort on the part of his other four mates particularly Slaby.

The Quakers rebounding suffered in the first half because the Falls squad was hot. The Tigers kept up a blazing pace in the first half. In the first 16 minutes the score was tied 11 different times and never more than two points separated the two clubs.

Salem was off in their shooting making but 10 of 31 shots for a meager 32 percent.

Falls played a 1-2-2 zone and combined with a keen shooting eye kept the Quakers at bay until intermission.

SALEM MISSED many easy shots and were guilty of several bad passes in the first half. Mentor John Cabas switched his defense from a zone to a man to man in the second quarter but the Tigers nevertheless kept up their hot pace.

The game was nip and tuck and see-sawed back and forth until two seconds remained when Carrier hit his jump to give the Falls a one point advantage at the second period horn.

Things changed in a hurry in the third quarter. Marks sunk his two charity flings. Dave Hunter and Dan Krichbaum hit fouls, Lou Slaby a fielder and a foul and Krichbaum another bucket and with 4:30 left Salem was in front 40-32.

Falls scored at the 4:30 mark on a goal by Jim Mathie to make it 40-34. Newton Falls came within five at 42-37 with 2:44 left but that was as fortunate as they got in the second half.

Slaby, Hunter and Deitch all scored for Salem in the last two minutes of the third period while the Tigers were scoreless. After three full frames Salem was ahead 52-38.

Newton Falls had made six of 13 field goal attempts and seven of seven foul shots in the second quarter but someone threw a wet blanket on their efforts in the third canto. They cooled off in a hurry sinking but two of 11 FG attempts. Salem outscored their foe 21-6 in the third frame.

Salem's press became more effective in the second half as did their fast break. They couldn't fast break in the first half because there were not many rebounds after a Tiger shot.

AT THE 4:50 mark of the final quarter the teams were still separated by 14 points with Salem on top at 60-46. The Quakers spurred here on scoring by Hunter, Jim Lehwald, Slaby and Krichbaum to go ahead 67-46.

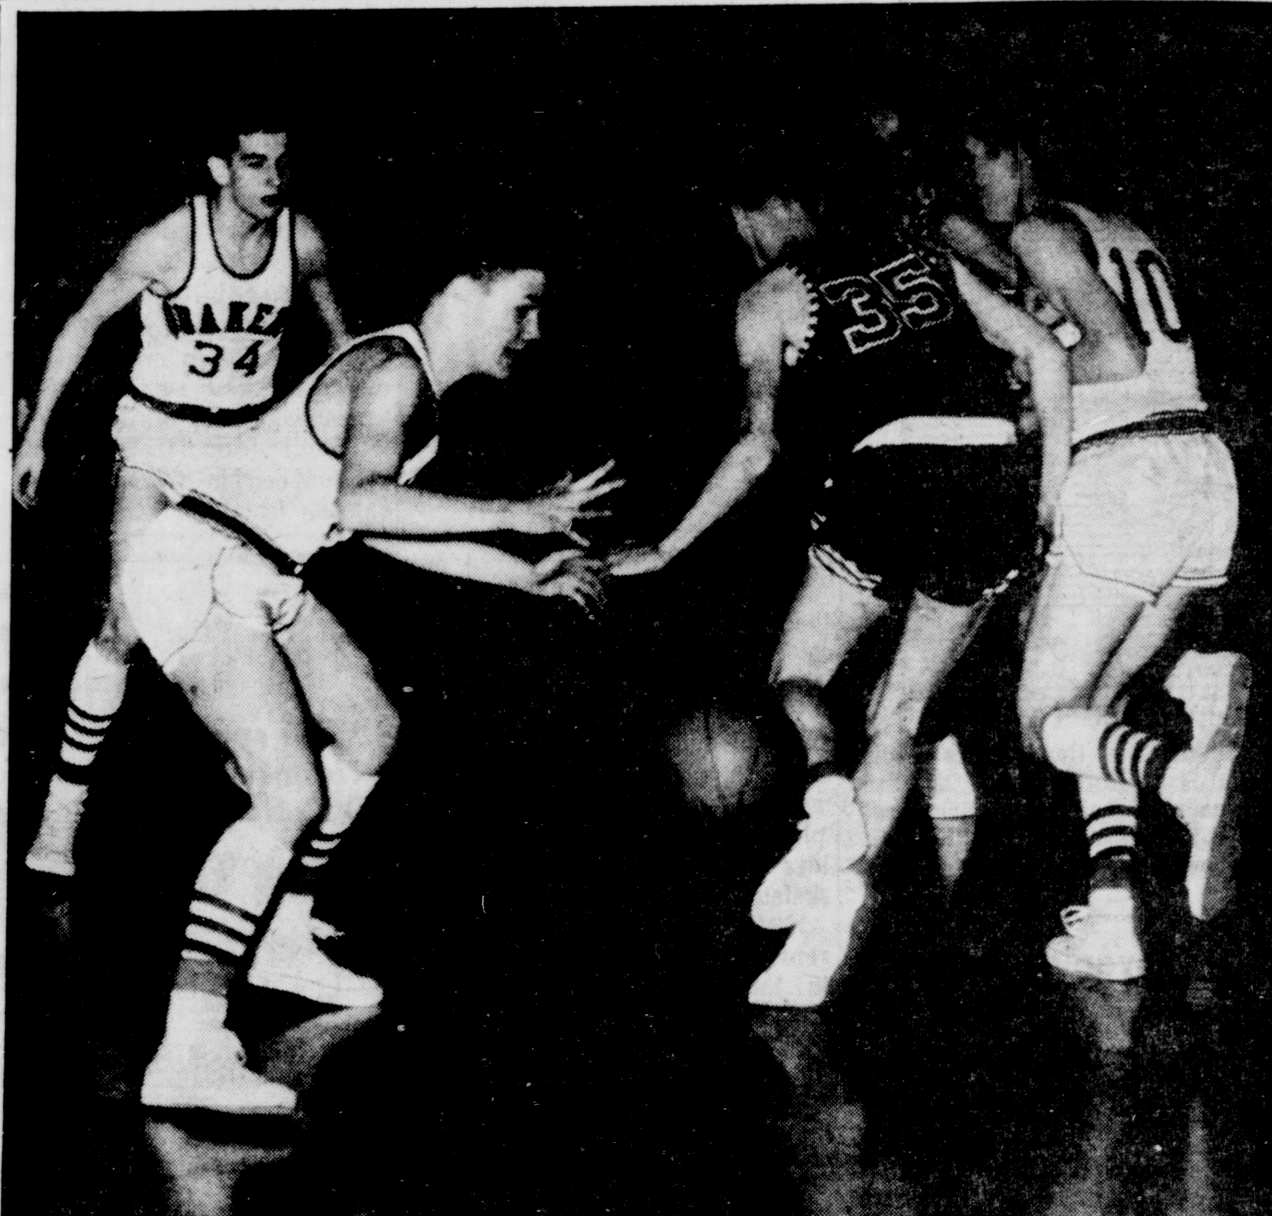

Cabas began substituting at the 2:40 mark when Tim Burchfield replaced Krichbaum. Jim Solmen played the last minute and 57 seconds for Hunter. At the 1:42 pole the Quakers again had their biggest lead of the game by 21 at 69-48.

Newton Falls suffered somewhat in the final quarter when Carrier fouled out with 4:13 left. He was their top rebounder.

In the last 90 seconds of the game Cabas inserted Ed Yates, Carl Dunn and Fred Harshman for his regulars. These local reserves kept pace with the Falls club who were playing their JVs too when they saw they had lost the contest.

Salem made 16 of 38 shots in the second half while the Tigers slowed to an almost standstill sinking only 5 of 24 shots. Throughout the game the Quakers hit on 38 per cent (26-68) while their foes shot 33 per cent (17-51).

The game was all Newton Falls in the first half with their keen shooting but the tide turned in Salem's favor in the second half primarily because of the rebounding of Marks and Slaby (they totaled 29 between them) plus the concentrated team effort of the Quakers in general.

Salem will play Youngstown South this Friday at 7:30 p.m. South defeated Girard 58-52 Saturday. Should the Quakers whip the Warriors they would play the winner of the Youngstown East-Austintown Fitch game Saturday at 9 p.m. East and Fitch tangle Friday at 9 p.m.

The Quakers set a new season scoring mark. They now have 1,471 points in 19 games. The old record was 1,459 set last season in 21 contests. Salem's season record is now 18-1 including the last 15 in succession.

Beaver Local Wrestler Cops State Crown

Carl Hoppel of Beaver Local captured the 120-pound state championship title Saturday night in St. John's Arena at Columbus in the finals of the Ohio Wrestling Tournament.

As far as the records show, Hoppel thus became the first wrestler in the history of the state meet to win the title as a freshman.

In order to win the crown, Hoppel pinned Frank Cunningham of Bridgeport in 5:17. Wrestling fans here will remember that just a week ago Cunningham decided Hoppel 6-3 in the regional finals at East Liverpool.

The victory was the 23rd for the season for this 15-year-old sensation. His only loss of the year being to Cunningham in the regional tournament.

He reached the finals by defeating Leonti of Cleveland John Marshall, 3-0 in the semi-final match. He had won his two opening bouts deciding Decadith of Warren Harding, 8-2 in his first match and Lazar of Mayfield 3-0 in the quarter finals.

13 Win Prizes At Gun Matches

Thirteen persons won prizes on Sunday at the monthly shooting contest held by the Salem Hunting Club at their range on the Damascus Road.

Winners in the pistol matches were Bill Robinson of Ravenna, Jerry Harroff of Salem and Bill White of Ravenna.

The off hand .22 rifle top three winners were George Stove of Salem, Jerry Harroff of Salem and Dave Kirby of Salem.

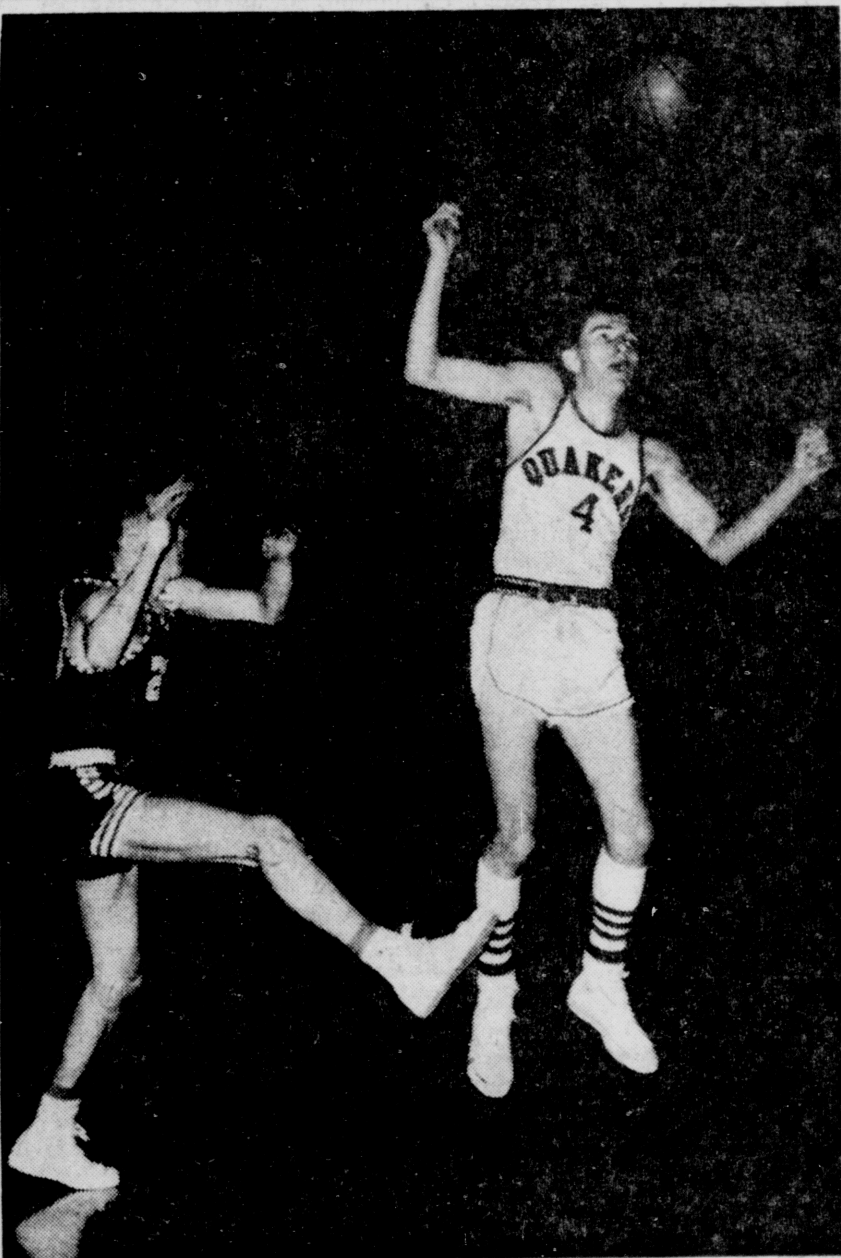

Winners in the rifle matches were Jerry Harroff, Ray Brandt of Winona and Mrs. James Ivan of Salem were the winners in the .22 rifle bench matches.

The winners of special prizes were Brandt and Mrs. Ivan while the traveling trophies for the month of February were won by Mrs. Ivan and Brandt also.

The next matches are set for March 22.

SCRAMBLE—Salem's Jim Lehwald (top picture) scrambles for the ball which Jim Mathie, 35, of Newton Falls has just lost during Salem's 71-51 victory over the Tigers in Saturday's first-round tournament action at Youngstown's South fieldhouse. Jim Solmen (34) and Tim Burchfield (10) are looking on. The Quakers' Woody Deitch (4) scored two of his 18 points following the play in the bottom picture. The Tigers' Paul Kopki appears to have punted the ball into Deitch's hands.

Miami's Redskins Need 2 Wins To Win Mid-American Crown

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Mid-American Conference race is in the spotlight today as Ohio's collegiate cagers move into their final big week of competition.

Miami's Redskins, shooting for a third consecutive MAC title, appear to be in the driver's seat. Coach Dick Shriders' team has a full one-game lead over second-place Bowling Green, and that in the important loss column.

But if the Redskins hope to wear the crown again this year, they'll have to weather a stormy road trip. Miami (8-1) tangles with Ohio University Tuesday, Kent State Saturday and Marshall on March 5, three rugged competitors, particularly on their home courts.

Bowling Green (8-3) has one loop contest remaining, and that one is at home against Marshall. Should the BeeGees triumph, Miami would have to win only one of its three remaining games to share the lead and two games to coo the title outright.

The Redskins have won four MAC crowns in the last six years and in 1952 shared the title with Western Michigan.

Elsewhere, Findlay solidified its hold on first place in the Mid-Ohio Conference with a 73-65 win over runnerup Wilmington Saturday night.

John Carroll vaulted into the top spot in the Presidents' Conference with an assist from Wayne State. The Detroit school ruined Case Tech's chances for the title by upsetting the scientists, 72-47.

In other big ones Saturday, Cincinnati strengthened its position in the Missouri Valley with an easy 88-74 win over Wichita. Oscar Robertson paced the way with 34 points to keep his national scoring lead.

Iowa pulled away from Ohio State in the second half to record a 91-79 triumph which dropped the Buckeyes into ninth place in the Big Ten.

United Trips Rebs, Cops County 'A' Title

Defense Shines In Eagles' 57-31 Victory

By HARRY SAVAGE

United Local's sixth-ranked Golden Eagles displayed a combination of heads-up defense and deliberate offense to smother Fairfield-Waterford 57-31 and notch the Columbiana County Class A Tournament title, Saturday night at Beaver Local gymnasium. It was the 17th victory in 20 starts for Bob Penrod's quintet and advanced them to the Class A sectional tournament in Canton.

Neither team was blistering hot from the field. United hit 19 of 59 attempts for 32 per cent and Fairfield was 11 of 50 for a 22 per cent. Most of the Rebels' shots, however, were hurried because of the hustling, hands-in-the-face defense of the Eagles. United Local methodically ran off play patterns against the Rebs and worked the ball in for easy layups or uncollected jumps. Penrod's ball club also controlled both backboards and limited their opponents to a single shot per attack.

For Bing Newton's team it was the ninth defeat of the season. Fairfield-Waterford has won ten. The Rebels were county champions last season.

UNITED'S JIM SUMMER continued scoring at a torrid pace and dropped in 20 points to lead both teams in scoring. Laverne Keslar was high man for the Rebels with 14. Les Blanchard and Gary Lindesmith each had nine points for the Eagles and this duo, along with Summer, controlled the boards throughout the contest.

The ballgame started slowly and a Lindesmith jump shot was the only bucket in the first two minutes. Keslar countered with a jumper and the 2-2 tie was the last time in the game that the score was knotted.

Summer scored on a jump shot from the corner to make it 4-2 and the husky forward hit a tip-in and a free throw to make it 7-2. Jim Pike sank a charity toss and the Eagles had stretched their lead to 8-2. Fairfield couldn't seem to break through United's tight zone and Frank Shagnot of the Eagles blocked three or four Fairfield

Eagles, Bears, Clippers Play In 'A' Sectional

United Local will meet Leetonia Thursday at 8:30 p.m. in the Canton Class A sectional tourney while Columbiana will battle Beach City on Friday at 7 p.m.

The United-Leetonia winner will meet the Boston Twp.-Ravenna Twp. winner on Saturday at 7 p.m. while the Beach City-Columbiana victor meets the Atwater-Windham winner on Saturday at 8:30 p.m. The two finalists will advance to district play.

jump shots in the first quarter. The 6-5 junior center, however, picked up two fouls in the initial period.

Keslar tallied on a pivot shot shortly before the buzzer and the first quarter ended with the score United Local 10, Fairfield-Waterford 5.

IN THE SECOND period the Eagles started to open up their attack. Lindesmith, Summer and Shagnot combined to stretch the United lead to 15-5. Fairfield came back to narrow the margin to five points at 15-10 and 17-12, but the rugged United board men broke the game wide open in the last three minutes of the first half. The Rebs lost much of their poise and United capitalized to run the score to 27-12 as the gun sounded the end of the first half.

After the intermission Fairfield started to gang up on the boards and Larry Peppel and Keslar started to get their share of the rebounds for the Rebels. The Hanover township quintet, however, continued to shred the nets with pinpoint accuracy and raced to a 22 point margin at 38-16 with a minute to play in the third stanza.

Newton's club managed to sink a brace of free throws to cut the margin to 38-18 at the end of 24 minutes of play. United's Blanchard was the chief culprit on defense and stole the ball on many occasions. The Golden Eagles had to play much of the third period without Shagnot, who was resting on the bench with four personal fouls. Gerry Marks proved a valuable replacement for the big pivotman and canned five points in the second half.

In the final eight minutes the Rebs tried to work the ball in to Keslar in the pivot for short jump shots. United Local simply closed in on the 6' senior and prevented him from getting his shots off.

The high-flying Eagles widened the margin to 48-21 with four and a half minutes to play and Penrod started to pull his starters from the contest. The overflooded crowds of approximately 1,200 fans gave loud ovations to each of the Golden Eagles as they left the floor.

The Eagles ran their margin to 23 points at 55-27 and 57-29 with time running out, but a jump shot by Fairfield's Dwyane Brown made the final count United Local 57, Fairfield-Waterford 31.

AS THE FINAL GUN sounded, United Local hoisted coach Penrod on their shoulders and carried the excited mentor to the dressing room. Another bunch of Eagles' fans helped Jim Pike cut the net from the basket. It was only the fourth tournament for the Eagles and their first championship. This is the first year that United Local had all four grades.

One of the notable achievements by the Eagles in the contest was holding Fairfield's Lee Chamberlain to a single point. Chamberlain has been one of the top scorers for the Rebs throughout the season.

In the preliminary game, Salineville's reserves sped past a lumbering United Local jayvee five to post a lopsided 50-20 decision and garner the junior varsity championship.

It'll take a bit of parlaying here and there, but within the next six days the NCAA can have 10 more major conference teams all prettily packaged for its championship basketball extravaganza next month.

Ford, Thomas Sign Their '59 Contracts

By The Associated Press
Ed (Whitey) Ford, who must follow a strict diet, and Frank Thomas, who hopes to give added weight to Cincinnati's batting attack, have signed their 1959 contracts.

Ford, the New York Yankees' ace left-hander, came to terms for an estimated $35,000 Sunday. This was about $3,000 more than he received last season when he won 14 games and lost seven.

New York General Manager George Weiss issued a statement disclaiming that any "good conduct" clauses were forced on the star pitcher. Ford reportedly had balked at club attempts to make the raise dependent upon his off-field habits.

Ford missed half a dozen starts last year due to pain in his left shoulder. He also was out for half of the 1957 campaign, appearing in only 129 innings. After the 1957 World Series, doctors said that his shoulder ache was due to "high uric acid."

A high purine diet was prescribed and he was told to stay on it. It demands that Ford refrain from eating protein meat or drinking alcoholic beverages, as both produce uric acid.

Thomas, who moved to the Reds from Pittsburgh in a six-player transaction last month, signed for about $25,000 — an increase of $7,000. The slugger hit 35 homers and drove in 109 runs last season.

Another first stringer to come to terms was catcher Sammy White of the Boston Red Sox. White, who hit .259 in 1958, joined the Sox at their new training base in Scottsdale, Ariz.

From Eastern Kentucky of the Ohio Valley, Texas Christian of the Southwest, and Kansas State of the Big Eight, the list can balloon to include teams from the Ivy League, and the Yankee, Border, Southeastern, Big 10, Rocky Mountain, Pacific Coast, Mid American, Southern and West Coast A.A. Conferences before the week is out.

Although six more "at large" entries remain to be named—Marquette is the only one picked so far—it's the conference slate that draws attention, and for good reason. No at large entry has won the NCAA championship since the ill-fated CCNY Club of 1950.

It was Kentucky's turn again last year and the Wildcats are one of the teams that can learn their fate within a week. Although they smashed Auburn's 39-game winning streak in a 75-56 show of strength last Saturday night, the Wildcats are still on tender hooks in the Southeastern Conference scramble.

Cross out Auburn, although it shares top spot with Mississippi State at 11-1 to 10-2 for Kentucky. Auburn loses out because it is on NCAA probation.

If Mississippi State holds its edge over Kentucky, the Maroons have the NCAA berth if they want it. They may not because of the Mississippi custom of not playing racially integrated teams. If they refuse, Kentucky gets the nod.

The other races hinge purely on competition. Here's a rundown: IVY LEAGUE—Dartmouth (11-1) Princeton (10-1) Friday and Penn Saturday.

YANKEE—Connecticut (7-2) has a tie clinched and winds title if second place Rhode Island (5-3) loses to Massachusetts Saturday. If not, the UConn settle it against Rhode Island March 4.

BORDER—Arizona State U. (7-2) can clinch tie by beating New Mexico State tonight. Texas West, 5-2 with three games remaining, has chance.

Wesley Ellis Shoots 67 to Win Tourney

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Wesley Ellis Jr. played just across the street from his boyhood home on a course he knew like a book and his closing 4-under-par 67 won the $20,000 Texas Open Sunday.

They say the toughest place to win a tournament is in your home town. Ellis, now playing out of Alderess, N.J., had the shots and the determination to crack that jinx.

He caught a faltering Bill Johnston, the defending champion from Provo, Utah, in the stretch and took $2,800 first money by two strokes.

Ellis and Johnston were tied going into the final hole. Johnston drove into a creek and wound up with a double bogey five. Ellis rolled in an easy par to make his 72-hole total 276.

Tom Niepote of Bronxville, N. Y., who had won only $42.68 on the winter tour, turned in a 69 and tied Johnston for runnerup at 278.

Ellis soared from 42nd place in money winnings on the winter tour to 11th with $3,823.43.

The saddest man in the rain-drenched tournament was Tommy Jacobs of Whittier, Calif. Jacobs started the last round as leader with 207. Johnston was second with 208 and Ellis was tied for third with 209.

Johnston was almost as sad. It was the second time in two weeks he had failed to win a tournament because of a double bogey on a par 3 hole. He also did it at Tucson, where Gene Littler of Singing Hills, Calif., surged past him to win by two strokes.

Ron Delany May Cut Indoor Mile Record

NEW YORK (AP) — The four-minute mile indoors was closer to a reality today than ever and the fellow who is on the hot spot is Ron Delany.

After his record-breaking 4:02.5 in the National AAU championships Saturday night in Madison Square Garden, the only question that remains is: When will Delany choose to do it?

If he follows his normal modus operandi it will depend on his opposition.

If Istvan Rozsavolgyi, Brian Hewson and Co. can push him, he'll hit the tape in four minutes. But he won't fight the clock. That's certain.

Rozsavolgyi pushed him to his record-breaker in the AAU meet. Ron's listed mark is 4:03.4, set in Chicago last year. Rozsavolgyi, a confident and talented Hungarian, aimed for 4:03 Saturday.

He started to sprint with over two laps to go—almost a quarter of a mile—and Delany had to keep up with him. That, in a nutshell, is how the record was broken.

Besides the four-minute indoor mile, there likely will be a 7-2 high jump and a 65-foot shot put before the summer sets in.

John Thmoas, Boston University's 17-year-old freshman, went 7-1 1/4 in the high jump, beating every world record, indoors and outdoors, then predicted that he'd do 7-2 before long. The cognized world high jump record is 7-1, set outdoors by the Soviets Yuri (Elevator Shoe) Stepanov.

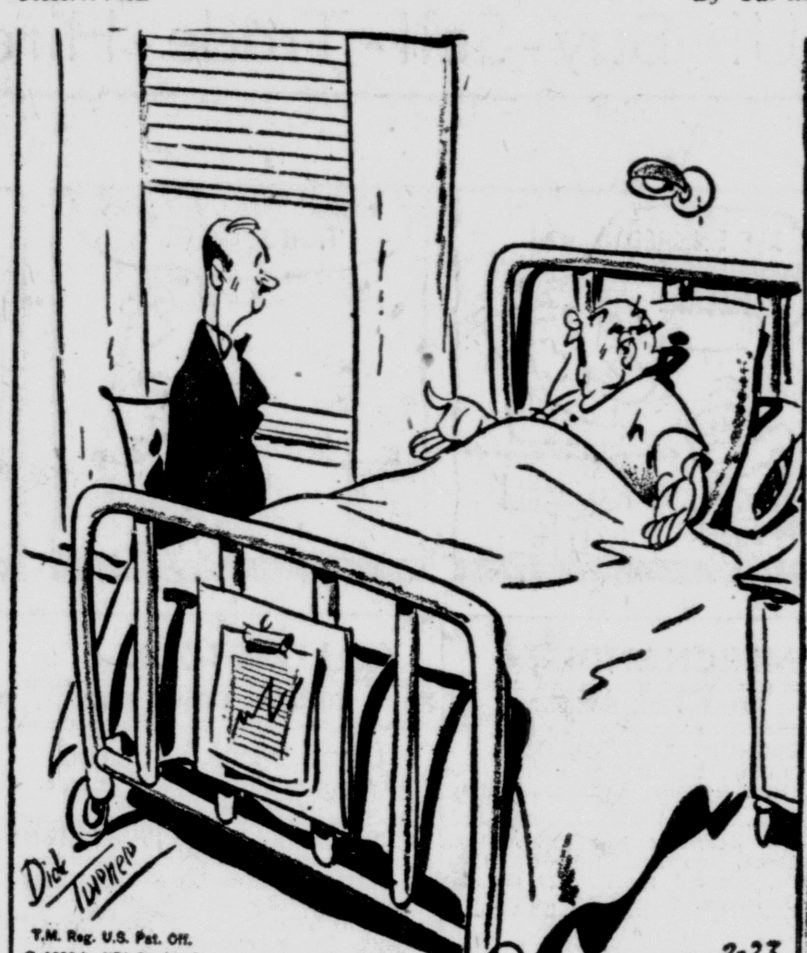

Big Parry O'Brien, the Los Angeles banker who holds every world shot put record in the book, bettered his own indoor mark for the 16-pound ball with a 62-1/4 heave. He casually commented that his next goal would be 65 feet.

All told five world records were broken in the AAU meet. In addition to Delany, Thomas and O'Brien, Lt. Bill Dellinger of the U.S. Air Force, cut almost seven seconds off the 3-mile standard with a 13:37 clockin and Bob Backus shattered his own 35-pound weight throw mark with a heave of 66-2/4.

Hole Collection To Be Shown In June.

As a public service, we have been punching extra holes in the belts of Salem's lucky men who lose weight. We, of course, do not charge for this service but we do take possession of the hole piece. Being of Scotch parentage, I found it quite impossible to throw away these holes, and began my collection.

With the U.S. employment situation what it is today, and the consequent decrease in the American girl, our collection should reach a sufficient magnitude by June to warrant a public showing of this rare collection.

Thousands of Cuban Citizens Killed Under Batista Regime

Editor's Note — For almost two months the guns of firing squads have been echoing along the length of Cuba. Dispatches tell of new executions almost daily, with perhaps a terse and superficial explanation. What is the underlying story? An Associated Press correspondent has dug into it, looking at the records and interviewing scores of Cubans. Robert Berrellez comes from Arizona and speaks Spanish fluently. This is the first of three stories he will write this week on the atrocities of the Batista regime and the aftermath.

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

HAVANA (AP)—Hundreds tortured or killed... scores executed in retribution...

They are figures, good round figures, and with repetition they come to have little meaning.

But behind them getting down to individual cases, they have a shocking meaning. They are the fruit of a dictatorship and of a revolution which conquered it.

The full scope of the atrocities charged to Fulgencio Batista's police state may never be known.

Fidel Castro's revolutionary government estimates 20,000 Cubans — thousands of them in no way connected with the rebellion — were tortured and killed by Batista's national police and army.

Batista fled this country Jan. 1, and his government fell apart. The Castro force took over. So far Castro's military tribunals have executed more than 300 men — former policemen and soldiers — for taking part in the Batista killings. Many more will face firing squads before the book is closed.

Whatever the verdict of history, there are piles of evidence to show the way things went under the fallen Batista's regime. His men were out to stamp out opposition and end a revolution. Civil rights meant nothing in Cuba for months.

One man alone, Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco, was accused of responsibility for 108 victims. He died before a firing squad last Wednesday. Five of his soldiers were executed for the massacre of 19 persons at one village.

The revolutionary government made no attempt to prove its entire case against Sosa Blanco. The prosecution rested after calling 82 of its 92 witnesses. The testimony, circumstantial and direct concerned 29 assassinations and homicides.

Nine of the victims were members of one family suspected of being rebel sympathizers, near Bayamo in Oriente province. This was the family of farm worker Martin Argote who was machine-gunned by soldiers as Sosa Blanco stood by, witnesses testified.

Miguel Llorente, the 10th person in the Argote family lineup, survived through a freakish incident — he fainted and fell a split second before the soldiers fired.

Questioned on his qualifications as an eyewitness Llorente told the court:

"No, I didn't see the shooting. All I know is I was alive in front of the guns, expecting to be dead in minutes. Then I woke up with all the others dead around me."

The defense, seeking to show the Argotes were victims of a battle between rebels and troops, noted that the body of a soldier was found near Argote's.

But Llorente testified the soldier was executed under Sosa Blanco's orders when he balked at firing on the family.

How were these atrocities kept from the public outside Cuba? Havana conveyed to the outsider a scene of timeless gaiety. Elements that might have shown the true picture were trapped by censorship, lack of evidence and fear.

The local press was muzzled. Responsible foreign news correspondents could not get beyond the thin layer of scrambled truth and scuttlebutt. The judicial arm of government was impotent. Disbelief and disinterest, ruled quarters that might have helped. Thus, say Cubans now outraged by present criticism of their military tribunals the world was unprepared to accept as fact the scene exposed by the collapse of the Batista dictatorship.

Volunteers Search Mountains For 2 Dartmouth Professors

BERLIN, N.H. (AP)—Scores of volunteers today plowed through deep snow on the White Mountains while spotters flew overhead in a search for two doctors missing since last Saturday on a 70-mile mercy flight.

Authorities expressed fear for the safety of Dr. Ralph E. Miller, 60, an experienced pilot, and Dr. Robert E. Quinn, 32, both members of the Dartmouth Medical School faculty.

They disappeared at 3:30 p.m. Saturday while flying in a single engine plane from Berlin to Lebanon. They had gone to Berlin to treat a heart patient.

The temperature Saturday and Sunday night was about 15 degrees below zero.

Guards posted on Sunday night said they saw no sign of any outdoor fires in the mountainous region. Authorities said it would be difficult to survive outdoors for more than 24 hours.

LAST TRY—By an ironic twist, this pretty girl stands between a convicted killer and the electric chair. She's Columbus, Ohio, attorney Lois Lanker, appointed by the National Legal Aid Society to take the final plea of Cleveland Walter J. Byomin, 42, to the U.S. Supreme Court. Byomin has been sentenced to death for the murder of a Wellington, Ohio policeman in 1957.

Texas Family Rescued After Three Days on Gulf Beacon

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—Port Mansfield after going there — Leslie Schmidt and his young family, marooned three days last week on a tiny beacon in the Gulf of Mexico, lived to tell about it.

But Leslie, 23, wrote a pathetic little diary to let relatives know what happened to them. He "knew" he and his wife and three children would die there within sight of the shore, he said Sunday.

"We wrote the diary so that when they found our bones they'd know what happened," Schmidt said at the hospital where he, his wife, Sara, 22, and the children — Leslie Jr., 3, Linda Lee, 2, and Cheryl, 10 months — are recovering.

Crewmen of a passing shrimp boat the Carroll Ann, snatched the hungry, cold and sick family from the tiny navigation light Saturday afternoon.

The Schmidts scrambled onto the light, just 7 miles from downtown Corpus Christi, Wednesday after their 26-foot cabin cruiser broke up in heavy seas that lashed Corpus Christi Bay. Schmidt was returning to Port Aransas from on an abortive commercial fishing venture.

"I tied her there and went down for Cheryl Lynn," related Mrs. Schmidt. "By the time we got Leslie Jr. up top, the boat was gone and everything we owned, except a half can of milk and that can of baby food."

"I said a prayer up every rung of that ladder," she recalled. Schmidt stepped clear of the cruiser with Leslie Jr., just as the boat went under.

Then the long vigil, the prayers, and the frustration began. Every morning an oil crew boat passed with 100 yards, the couple said. "They never saw us although we yelled at them," Schmidt said.

"I prayed all the time," Mrs. Schmidt added, "and God must have been with us. He saved us."

3 Drivers Are Fined By Mayor of Lisbon

LISBON — Three motorists were fined a total of $45 and costs Sunday by Mayor John Todd for traffic violations, and three others forfeited bonds when they failed to appear for hearings.

Carl B. Young, 33, of East Liverpool RD 2, and Denny Dean Smith, 24, of Sebring were each fined $15 for speeding.

William E. Garwood, 20, of Lisbon RD 5, was fined $15 for no muffler.

Jacob A. Eller, 35, of Canton forfeited a $15 bond for passing without the assured clear distance ahead, and Charles H. Mick, 31, of Warren and Lawrence A. Williams, 21, of Akron each forfeited a $15 bond for crossing a yellow line.

All were cited by the State Highway Patrol.
